TIVOLI FIGHT WON

BY EVENING WORLD.

Ex-Convict's Dummy Gives Up and Surrenders His License to Escape the Law.

The Evening World has won its hard fight for deceney and order against the most fingrant dive ever fastened upon the city.

Somewhere Ackron's pull has snapped. The men back of him, who he claimed were more powerful than Chief of Police Devery or the Police Commissioners, have deserted him. It will be a questificial plants and the boxes in which so many robberies were committed and the entire paraphernalia of vice will . The other places are conducted in be torn out and earted away.

But it was not until O'Connor, who since the flight of his ex-convict employer, Ackron, has been acting as manager of the dive, had been held in a police court fer keeping a disorderly resort, until his waiters had been fined and detectives thronged around, that he gave up.

Many times he telephoned to Fair View, N. J., yesterday to Ackron. The telephone wire was blue, but there was no way out of it. As a last resort O'Connor went to the Excise Commissioner's office and surrendered his certificate himself. This was a sharp move, as by that means he obtained a rebate for the unexpired term. Had Commissioner Lyman revoked the certicate he would have lost the whole.
